

GAS

ESCAPED AND TWO PEOPLE ARE DEAD.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS WAS SICK WOMAN.

THE WATCHMAN WENT TO SLEEP

Smell of Gas Today Caused an Examination to be Made—Two Taken to Hospital.

New York, Dec. 4.—Two persons are dead and three others quite ill as the result of escaping illuminating gas in the apartments of Morris Plotkin, 1776 Pitkin avenue, Brooklyn, this morning. The house is a big apartment and for the past week a death watch has been placed there, the watchers being her husband, Morris, and her son-in-law, Jos. Cohen. Last night it was Cohen's turn to keep watch but he fell asleep. For the comfort of the sick woman, a gas stove had been put in the rooms. This morning some of the other tenants of the building smelled gas and tracing it to the Plotkin apartments they broke open the door, only to find the rooms filled with gas and Mrs. Plotkin and her grand daughter Sarah Mesinkoff, aged 12, dead. Cohen was in a chair scarcely breathing and Morris Plotkin was lying on the floor unconscious. Cohen and Plotkin were taken to St. Mary's hospital, where the doctors said the former could not live, though Plotkin may recover. Investigation showed that the tube connecting the gas stove had become disconnected.

ON LADDER

THREE STORIES FROM GROUND ANDERSON STRUGGLED

With an Insane Woman Who Wanted to Jump—The Marshal Finally Saved Her.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—On a shaky ladder three stories from the ground Fire Marshall Anderson struggled for 15 minutes this morning with a demented woman bent on committing suicide. A large crowd collected on the streets and powerless to give aid, watched the struggle in the air. The woman is Miss Josephine Rude of 36 Esther st. Detroit. Last night she went to the house of Mrs. C. E. Sheldon, 204 Dearborn avenue, and engaged a room for the night. This morning she was discovered on a window ledge crying: "God had commanded her to jump." A ladder was planted by the fire marshal but before he reached her she jumped. He caught her in his arms and carried her safely to the ground. She is now under surveillance.

MISSING MISS NELL FOUND BY THE POLICE.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 4.—Nell Cropsey, aged 18, who had been missing from her home in Elizabeth City, N. C., since November 21, was arrested in Wilson, N. C., today, and positively identified. She is being held for her father. The girl appeared in Wilson today with a man.

GENERAL BROWNE

National Commander Union Veteran Legion in Newark to Meet the Veterans of the War.

General J. Edwin Browne, National Commander of the Union Veteran Legion of Washington, D. C., arrived in Newark at noon today. Adjutant General O'Connor made a mistake in rectifying the local legion that General Browne would be in Newark Tuesday, December 3, whereas according to his itinerary he was to get here today, and he arrived on time.

The meeting last night was adjourned and all present were disappointed. An open meeting will be held tonight at which General Browne will be present and inspect the legion and make an informal address. Everyone who can is urged to be present.

RAISED GUN

AND BLEW BARBER'S HEAD FROM HIS SHOULDERS.

Brock Had Killed Barber's Dog and Trouble Immediately Resulted at Norfolk, Virginia.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 4.—Alexander Barber was shot and killed near his home in Hagan, Va., today, by Arthur Brock, of Harlan county, Kentucky. Brock in passing Barber's house, killed a small dog which ran out and attacked him. This enraged Barber who pursued Brock with a shot gun and he was in the act of firing upon him when Brock raised his gun and blew Barber's head from his shoulders.

OWES A DEBT

He Says to People Who Gave Him Their Cuticle and He Sues for $20,000.

Toledo, O., Dec. 4.—Wm. W. Morehouse, a switchman formerly employed by the Pere Marquette railroad, has just filed suit for $20,000 damages against the company on account of injuries alleged to have been received by being struck by one of the company's engines while coupling cars. Morehouse alleges that owing to the decay of flesh that followed his injuries it was necessary to graft 162 pieces of skin and live flesh from healthy persons onto himself. It is stated that he is under deep obligations to those who furnished him with their cuticle to save his life, and that while money could not purchase human flesh, blood and skin he feels that he is indebted to his benefactors, and thinks that $20,000 would repay them to some extent for the sacrifice in his behalf.

BLOODHOUNDS

WILL PROBABLY BE BOUGHT BY THE COUNTY.

A Petition Signed by Nearly 600 Tax Payers is Presented to the Commissioners.

A petition was presented to the County Commissioners this morning by Messrs. Chas. C. Metz and John N. Lawyer, signed by five or six hundred people, asking that they purchase two blood hounds for the protection of the citizens of Newark and Licking county, the sheriff to have charge of the dogs. This is a measure that has long been agitated in Licking county.

The commissioners will give the matter thorough consideration at once.

London, Dec. 1.—Sir William Mac Cormac, President of the Royal College of Surgeons, is dead. He was one of the most famous of the world's physicians.

PULL

IS BEING MADE FOR OHIO WAR DEBT.

ANOTHER BIG LOAD OF BILLS IN THE HOUSE.

MANY OF MINOR IMPORTANCE.

Recess Appointments Sent to Senate Today—McLay's Attack on Schley—in Congress.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A pull is being made in Congress for the payment to Ohio of the Civil war debt of $450,000. During the war, the state issued bonds for the benefit of the general government. Uncle Sam has reimbursed for the principal but Ohio now wants the interest, amounting to a half million dollars.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A large number of recess appointments were sent to the Senate today. Among them were those of Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, to be attorney general; William H. Hunt of Montana, to be governor of Porto Rico; Herbert H. D. Pierce of Massachusetts, to be the third assistant secretary of state; William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, and William A. Rodenberg of Illinois to be civil service commissioners, together with many diplomatic and consular officers.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The senate adopted a resolution directing the appointment of a committee to cooperate with a like committee from the house to consider by what token of respect and affection congress might express the sorrow of the nation upon the tragic death of the late President McKinley. Mr. Foraker, senior senator from Ohio, presented the McKinley resolution, and as a further mark of respect the senate adjourned.

In the house there was another shower of bills. Among them were bills by Mr. Showalter of Pennsylvania for a constitutional amendment prohibiting polygamy, and by Mr. Dick of Ohio a constitutional amendment substituting April 30 for March 4 as the date of commencement of terms of the president, vice president, senators and representatives.

Representative Williams (Mifflin) introduced a resolution that a committee be appointed by the speaker for the purpose of investigating and reporting to the house of representatives the truth or falsity of the statements as made in the naval history by E. S. MacLay, the truth or falsity of the allegations that proof sheets were submitted to and acquiesced in by said Captain Croninshield and the said Rear Admiral Sampson, and to recommend to the house of representatives the course of action to be pursued by the house in consequence of the ascertainment of fact to be made by the said committee.

Mr. Dick (O) introduced a resolution for a general investigation of the abridgment of the right to vote in certain states, with a view to reducing congressional representations from such states. The resolution recites that "it is a matter of common information and belief that the rights of some male citizens, being 21 years of age, to vote at elections, is denied and abridged in certain states."

On motion of Mr. Grosvenor that portion of the president's message relating to the death of the late president was referred to a committee, to consist of one member from each state, to join a similar committee of the senate, to consider and report by what token of respect and affection it may be proper for congress to express the deep sensibility of the nation to the tragic death of the late president. The speaker appointed a committee, headed by Grosvenor, and then as a further mark of respect the house adjourned.

TO JURY

BONINE CASE IN TO GO THIS WEEK.

THE DEFENDANT STILL HAS HER CONTENTED SMILE

AND NERVES AS FIRM AS EVER.

Points Brought Out in this Celebrated Murder Trial in Progress at Washington, D. C.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Up to this moment in the trial of Mrs. Bonine for the murder of Jas. S. Ayres, the most pronounced features have been the several proofs of the possession of a revolver by Ayres, and the contradiction of the testimony of Dr. Shaeffer as to the bloodstains on the wrapper. Although this last mentioned expert in microscopism asserted, on his professional reputation that there was no blood on the wrapper that Mrs. Bonine wore on the night of the tragedy, Dr. Sterling Ruffin, a professor in materia medica and medical jurisprudence in the Columbian University who had examined the wrapper testifies that he had found blood upon it, and that, according to the tests of microscopism there could be no dissension on this point.

This testimony was strengthened by that of the cleaning and dyeing expert Berlyn, who said that he had taken a piece of the collar of the wrapper and cleaned it of blood put upon it that had been obtained from a girl in his establishment.

The government has sought to prove that Mrs. Bonine did not wash the wrapper and that there was no blood upon it; that Ayres was killed by a pistol owned by Mrs. Bonine, and that in committing the crime she ascended the fire escape, entered the window and shot him. All these points have been practically destroyed by the defense. It has been reiterated on the stand that Ayres owned a pistol, that he was in the habit of excessive drinking; and that Mrs. Bonine had never shown any special fondness for him. Mrs. Bonine, apparently is taking a greater interest in the proceedings at this stage, but her nerves are as firm as ever and her patient smile is still the comment and wonder of all.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The case of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine, on trial for the murder of James Seymour Ayres, Jr., expected to go to the jury the latter part of this week. Three witnesses, intimate friends of Ayres, were put on the stand, and swore that they had seen a revolver in Ayres' room. Two of them, Duncan B. Hubbard and Thomas Ford, had come from Michigan to testify. They said the revolver greatly resembled the one in evidence. The wrapper worn by Mrs. Bonine on the night of the tragedy was again the subject of discussion, the defense putting on the stand witnesses whose evidence was intended to discredit testimony by Dr. Shaeffer, the government expert, who had testified that a careful examination of the wrapper had failed to disclose the presence of any blood spots thereon.

Railroad officials at Salt Lake City, Utah, say that not less than 40,000 tourists visited that city during the five months ending October 31 last, and they estimate that at least $400,000 was spent there by them during their stay.

LOVE

FOR HIS SISTER CAUSED A BURGLAR

TO MAKE FULL CONFESSION OF HIS CRIME.

THE WOMAN WAS IN PRISON.

Held as a Witness and to Secure Her Freedom Stites Told the Entire Story.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 4.—Though he is a hardened confessed burglar, Harlan Stites has one redeeming quality, and that is love of his sister, Mrs. Maud Richards. She is a good woman and has tried to reform Stites, at the same time shielding him. When he returned from the east after, it is alleged, escaping from the Morristown, N. J., jail, after striking down a turnkey, his sister shielded him.

For her pains five weeks after her marriage she was arrested and thrown into jail as a witness against her brother, charged with burglarizing the West Virginia Novelty Works.

She could not get bond, and has spent five days in jail. Her case attracted sympathy and Attorney J. J. P. O'Brien applied to Judge Hughes for a writ of habeas corpus. Action on the writ was postponed until a conference could be held by the Chief of Police and Prosecuting Attorney Nesbitt. They did not like to see Mrs. Richards kept in jail and Lucy also did not like to run the risk of releasing her and having her leave town, she being the only witness whose testimony would convict Stites.

Then came the information that Stites would make an open and free confession to the entire theft if his sister were discharged. The offer was accepted and in the presence of the two attorneys, the Chief of Police and other officials, Stites dictated a Stenographer Louis E. Schrader the story of the crime. He said he broke into the novelty works by removing a staple from the back door. He took the booty upstairs in Mrs. Marpool's boarding house to his brother's room and later asked his sister to put it in her trunk. She at first refused, but later consented to shield him. He said neither his sister nor his brother, Reuben Stites, had anything to do with the crime.

During Stites' recital the sobs of his sister in the female quarters upstairs could be heard in the office. She had done practically nothing but cry ever since she was taken from her young husband, who has furnished testimonials as to his good character. When the confession was completed and signed, Mrs. Richards was brought downstairs where she met her husband. Their greeting was affecting and they went away happily arm in arm.

VANDERBILT DOESN'T WANT IT.

New York, Dec. 4.—Wm. K. Vanderbilt it is learned today, was asked to become a director of the $400,000,000 Northern Securities Company, with a view to emphasizing the broad and general character of that corporation, whose charter permits it to acquire the stocks and bonds of any railroad or transportation company in the world. Mr. Vanderbilt declined because, as he said, he purposed decreasing, rather than increasing his official connection with railroads.

TETANUS

WAS NOT CAUSED BY VIRUS EMPLOYED.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE CAMDEN BOARD OF HEALTH.

GERMS WERE IN ATMOSPHERE,

And Were Not Introduced at the Time of Vaccination—Thorough Tests Were Made.

Camden, N. J., Dec. 4.—The following is the official report of the Camden Board of Health concerning the cases of lockjaw which occurred in patients who had been vaccinated.

We have thoroughly investigated the cases of tetanus occurring in Camden, and beg to present to the public the following facts and conclusions:

1. Samples of all the different makes of vaccine employed in Camden have been tested for tetanus germs by the state bacteriologist of New Jersey and have been found pure and entirely free from tetanus germs; hence, tetanus could not have been caused by the virus employed. (See report of Dr. Mitchell, Secretary of New Jersey State Board of Health).

2. The history of each case of tetanus has been carefully collected from the attending physician, and in every instance vaccination was practiced in a correct and cleanly manner; the infection of tetanus resulting from neglect on the part of the patients to present themselves to the attending physicians so that their vaccination could receive proper attention.

3. One case of tetanus has occurred from gunshot wound, during the same period, in a boy who had not been vaccinated, proving that the tetanus germs were in the atmosphere.

4. Indisputable evidence of the fact that the tetanus germs were not introduced at the time of vaccination is that acute tetanus occurs in from 5 to 9 days after the introduction of the germs, whereas in every case acute tetanus occurred in from three to four weeks after the vaccination. If the virus had been contaminated, tetanus would have ensued within 9 days after vaccination. Tetanus developed in every make of vaccine used.

5. Further proof of the purity of the virus exists in the reports of the physicians in Cooper Hospital, who tested on animals samples of all makes of vaccine employed in Camden. If the virus had been contaminated the animals would have developed tetanus because of their extreme susceptibility to this disease. (See animal experiments).

6. During the past five weeks there have been vaccinated in Philadelphia a very large number of people with the same virus as employed in Camden. In not one of these cases did tetanus occur.

7. The tetanus cases in Camden are to be explained upon atmospheric and telluric conditions which have prevailed in Camden during the past six weeks. There has been a long period of dry weather with high winds, so that tetanus germs, which have their normal habitat in the earth dust, dirt of stables, etc., have been constantly distributed in the atmosphere. It is noticeable in all the cases, after careful examination as to the cause, that the wound had been exposed by the scab being knocked off or removed, or else the arm had been injured and infection resulted; frequently children scratched the vaccinated area with their dirty fingers and nails and infected the wound.

8. That vaccination should be regarded as a surgical operation and should be performed in an aseptic or clean manner, and in every instance the physician should be consulted for advice if any unusual inflammation should develop.

9. It is the unanimous opinion of the Board of Health as well as of their committee of experts, that, inasmuch as vaccination is harmless, it should be insisted upon by physicians as an absolutely necessary procedure for the prevention of small-pox. Tetanus, or any other infection, can never occur if

SITUATION IN THE PHILIPPINES.

During the last year Secretary Root in his report shows there has been a great deal of military activity in the Philippines, though none of the engagements have been on a large scale. More than 1,000 contacts occurred between our troops and the insurgents from May, 1900, to June 30, 1901, and there have been many similar encounters since the last date. On an average that amounts to three per day. That shows the difficulties of guerrilla warfare. Up to June 30 the Filipino losses were: Killed, 3,854; wounded, 1,193; captured, 6,572; surrendered, 23,096. For the Americans the figures are: Killed, 245; wounded, 490; captured, 118, missing 20. It will be observed that fifteen Filipinos have been killed for every American, and this fact gives a vivid idea of the inequality of the contest. The natives are often brave to rashness, but in the majority of cases they are so poorly armed that they are shot down like sheep while trying to close in on men who oppose their rude knives with magazine rifles.

The secretary, no matter what force may be necessary for us to maintain on the islands, has decided upon a principle of rotation in that force. He says: "It is the design of the department not to subject any of our forces to the effect of a tropical climate for a longer period than three years without an intervening tour of service in a colder climate. With the reorganized army we are getting into a position where this can be accomplished systematically as a matter of routine." This explodes the idea of American settlement, enterprise and advancement. It is official announcement that the islands are no place for people of American birth. They are merely a sinkhole for American soldiers and American money, and so it will probably be to the end. It is a permanent investment of that character.

There is an interesting political movement in Indiana by colored politicians to draw the color line. Indiana is a close state politically, going sometimes for one party and sometimes for the other. But without the 30,000 colored voters in the state the Republican party would be in a helpless minority. This condition of affairs has attracted the attention of the leading colored politicians of the State, and it is said they have taken steps to make their power felt, and to demand offices and other recognition in return for votes. It is proposed to put a colored ticket in the field at each election beginning with the congressional election next fall. The colored people of Indiana complain of discrimination against their race in the distribution of Federal, state and county patronage.

COMING CUBAN ELECTION.

There is some unrest in Cuba because of the alleged participation of United States army officers now stationed in Cuba in the presidential campaign now in progress, and Secretary Root has found it necessary to disavow any such action. General Maso, one of the candidates, alleged that Estrada Palma, probably the leading aspirant, was receiving aid from the Americans. Maso is a growing favorite and has served Cuba in the field and in other ways. He is 70 years old, a great student, and is said to be an ardent admirer of the United States. Estrada Palma was the representative in this country of the Cuban republic before the United States intervened, and that such intervention occurred is ascribed largely to his influence in agitating the Cuban cause in official and other circles. He, too, has long served the cause of Cuban freedom giving seven years of his life in jail for it. Senor Palma is perhaps better known in the United States than is General Maso, but they both have good records.

Foraker Riding in Front.
(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Hanna was. Foraker is. That is the story coming from all parts of the Ohio political field. The influence of the senator from the lake border of the state is no longer potent at the White House. The wishes of the senator from the river edge are now consulted in Ohio matters. When two men ride a horse one must ride behind. Hanna has had the saddle and Foraker the crupper for over four years. Now Foraker seems to be firm in the saddle, while his senatorial colleague is slipping over the tail. It is the way of politics.

RECOVERS

To Tell of His Experience in a Box While Crossing the Ocean.
Beck's Story.

New York, Dec. 4.—The man who was discovered in the hold of the Hamburg American steamer Palatia, after having made the trip across the ocean in a box, has recovered sufficiently to be able to establish his identity positively. He said his name was Johan Beck, and that he had lived up to about a year ago in Budapest, Hungary. He was a house painter, out of work. He fitted up a package case paid freight charges on it and engaged a cart to take it to the Hamburg pier at a certain time. He then returned to his lodgings and boxed himself up, after he had provisioned himself with a dozen cans of condensed milk, a box of prunes, three dozen cakes of chocolate, coffee in bottles and some bread. The cart called and got the box not knowing of its living contents and shipped it. Beck declares he was in the box until the ship reached the Hoboken pier, a period of about 15 days, when he found he was almost dead from hunger, cold and terror.

Fat Contracts.
New York, Dec. 4.—Sir Christopher Furness, M. P., sailed for England, taking with him signed contracts for the building of 12 freight-carrying steamers of from 6,000 to 10,000 dead weight capacity, the capital, nearly $4,000,000, to be furnished by Americans. He also made arrangements with the Clergue interests at Sault Ste Marie for the erection of an immense shipbuilding plant, to be located at Sault Ste Marie, close to the junction of the Soo canal and Lake Superior. Here will be erected steel works which will cost approximately $10,000,000, and the iron and coal fields of Canada will furnish the raw material.

Alleged Abductor Held.
Elizabeth City, N. C., Dec. 4.—James Wilcox, who is charged with the abduction of Miss Nellie Cropsey, the young girl whose mysterious disappearance from her home about two weeks ago has created a sensation in eastern North Carolina, was held in $1,000 bail to await action of grand jury, after a preliminary hearing before the mayor. The courtroom was crowded during the hearing. Only a few witnesses were examined, among them being the father and sister of the missing girl.

Federation of Labor.
Scranton, Pa., Dec. 4.—Over 50 officers and delegates of the American Federation of Labor are already here to attend the annual convention, which opens Thursday morning in St. Thomas college hall. President Gompers and the executive council were in session all day long with disputes between members of the allied organizations over jurisdiction and like matters. There will be a convention of the newly formed metal trades federation at Hotel Jersey.

KINDNESS RETURNED

By H. I. Cleveland.

"I don't suppose I ever told you the story of how a prisoner of war showed his gratitude?"

"No. Let us have it."

"It was toward the close of the civil war that I was placed in charge of the officers' hospital at Hampton, Va., and just back of Fortress Monroe. I found a good many invalid Union officers in the hospital, and there were between fifty and sixty Confederate officers there, all ill and all prisoners. My instructions in regard to the care and feeding of them were to take the same care of their living as was given to the Union men. I attempted to carry out these instructions in spirit as well as letter.

"There was another Chicago surgeon at the hospital besides myself, but he was under me. My work was agreeable, and I found the Confederates a gentlemanly set of fellows who had done their duty as they saw it, suffered and were now about ready to begin to prepare for a better kind of living than making war. Among them was a young lieutenant, Ellis Lewis, to whom I took quite a fancy.

"One day in making my rounds and on reaching the Confederates I found them pale, trembling, unwarmed. In endeavoring to ascertain what was wrong with them I found that they had not had meat for more than a week, that their rations were being kept from them. Lieutenant Lewis said this had been going on for some time.

"Still," said I, "I have given explicit orders that you shall be fed the same as the Union officers here, and I have given no orders that meat shall be kept from you."

"But we get no meat," answered Lewis.

"I called up the Chicago man who was in charge of the feeding of the prisoners and who is now a prominent citizen, and I asked him if he was responsible for depriving the Confederate officers of meat. He said he was. I asked him why he did this when I had given contrary orders.

"Do you suppose," he asked, "I am going to give these men any more than I can help when their government is starving our people in Libby and Andersonville?"

"That has nothing to do with this case," I said. "You will feed these men as I have directed or one of us will leave this hospital." Charges will be preferred against me, and I will make them. We will have humanity here or I will know why."

"The meat came after that."

"Shortly after this incident took place I learned that charges had been preferred against me to General Butler. I was accused of favoring the Confederates. That was a pretty serious charge in those days, but I was compelled to laugh when I found out that the charges were based upon my having required that Confederate and Union sick should be fed alike.

"Colonel Schaeffer of General Butler's staff was directed to visit me with a board of inquiry and investigate the matter. I saw Schaeffer before the board commenced work, and he said to me:

"This is very serious business, doctor. You are charged with favoring the Confederates, and General Butler wants all the facts."

"My instructions," I replied, "have been to discriminate against none in this hospital. I do not understand that I am to feed Union men and starve Confederates. I do not understand that course is justified by any rules of warfare. What the Confederates themselves are doing does not concern me so far as the conduct of this hospital is concerned. I am not here to slaughter prisoners. You go back and ask General Butler if it is desired by him that I shall make this hospital a halfway ground between a battlefield and a graveyard. By—, if it is I'll fight the proposition!"

"Colonel Schaeffer posted off to General Butler at once and told him what I had said and also my detailing the circumstances of the meat order. Old Ben was a pretty shrewd man and sagacious in many things. When Schaeffer had finished, he looked up and remarked:

"I guess we had better let Rush alone."

"And they did."

"Some time after this a new batch of prisoners was brought to us and lodged in the same part of the hospital the other Confederates were in. They had only been there a short time when one rainy night Lieutenant Lewis, sick, barefooted, half-dressed, made his way to my headquarters and roused me.

"Doctor," he said, "you have been right with us, and we wish to show you that we can reciprocate. The new prisoners that have come in are armed. Their purpose in the night to overcome the guard, kill him and get away. I come to warn you, but you must protect me, for if they know I had betrayed them they would kill me."

"I had only a single guard at the hospital, and an escape meant the ruin of my reputation. I got Lewis into a safe place and telegraphed Fortress Monroe for troops to be sent as fast as they could come. I made it a rush message, and I got them fast. The hospital was surrounded, and in due time the new prisoners were disarmed and the escape prevented.

"I shivered through until I had enough soldiers on hand to save myself. It was too close a call. If the prisoners had escaped, I could never have explained the matter, especially in view of the fact that I had stood out for treating them with humanity at a time when most sane men were strongly prejudiced against acting toward the south with any mercy."—Chicago Record-Herald.

DO YOUR CHILDREN ASK QUESTIONS?

Of course they do. It is their way of learning and it is your duty to answer. You may need a dictionary to aid you. It won't answer every question, but there are thousands to which it will give you true, clear and definite answers, not about words only, but about things, the sun, machinery, men, places, stories and the like. Then, too, the children can find their own answers. Some of our greatest men have ascribed their power to study of the dictionary.

Of course you want the best dictionary. The most critical prefer the New and Enlarged Edition of

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

There's a political ring in this town composed of four shyster lawyers, three quack doctors and two or three schemed ex-officers, and they are bragging of how they are going to down us. We shall start out on Monday morning and dissolve the ring, and it's ten to one every man goes down in his boots as soon as he hears our step on the stairs.

"Well," he said, "I don't pretend to know everything."

"If I were going to revise that statement for you," she answered, "I could think of only one change to make."

"What would that be?"

"Anything" for "everything."—

NEARLY ASPHYXIATED.

Williams Family Living on South Fifth Street had a Narrow Escape Tuesday Night—Dampers on the Kitchen Stove had Been Turned Off.

The family of Mrs. Anna Williams, widow of the late George M. Williams, who live at 196 South Fifth street, had a narrow escape from death by asphyxiation Tuesday night.

The family consists of Mrs. Williams, two daughters, Mrs. Daisy Crow and Miss Kate Williams, George, Lincoln, and two small children of Mrs. Crow.

The members of the family, sleep up stairs. They had retired at the usual hour. About midnight Mrs. Williams was awakened having great difficulty in breathing and the odor of gas was plainly discernible. She awakened her son, Lincoln, with great difficulty, and they threw the doors and windows open, realizing that they had a very narrow escape.

After the air was let in the house the other members of the family were aroused, all being in a semi-conscious state from the inhalation of the fumes. All recovered quickly after breathing the fresh air except Mrs. Williams, who nearly collapsed, and Mrs. Crow, both became very ill, and had not recovered this morning.

It was discovered that the dampers on the kitchen stove pipe had been turned off, probably by one of the children, and the gas which was not burned instead of going out the chimney, escaped into the room and then up stairs in the sleeping apartments. Although the two ladies are quite ill, no serious results are anticipated and the family are glad indeed, that they are all alive today.

BOLD HOLD-UP.

Harry Kissell Had a Little Experience With Two Highwaymen on Second Street—Robbers Got a Few Cigars But Overlooked 15 Cents—Kissell Not Injured.

One of the boldest and most daring holdups that ever occurred in Newark was that of Harry Kissell, a laborer, aged 19, on Second street hill, south of the smallpox hospital, between 8 and 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. Kissell was riding his wheel out Second street, intending to visit his brother, Harry, who lives beyond the corporation line on the Second street road, in the house formerly occupied by George Murphy.

When just south of the post house, two men appeared from either side of the road, and at the point of pistols ordered him to dismount and hold up his hands. With this order Kissell quickly complied, and while one of the men held him "covered," the other deftly went through all his pockets. They found no money, overlooking 15 cents in a vest pocket, but took some cigars. They then ordered him to mount and "get a move on himself."

He rode quickly to the home of his brother where he reported the occurrence. He says that one of the men wore a mask over his eyes, was short, heavy set, and had a mustache. The other highwayman he did not get a good look at, but he was taller and had bushy whiskers.

Mr. Kissell was greatly frightened by his experience, and he and his brother, Harry, came part way up the road to the summit of the hill. From here they could see down in Veatch's field, a bright fire with several men about it. It is probable that these men were tramps, and two of their number were probably guilty of the hold up.

Mr. Kissell was not hurt in any manner, and came back to town about 10 o'clock, going to his home, 24 South Fourth street.

COUNTRY SAFE.

Colonel Ike Hill is on Guard, Let the Game Proceed—What the Washington Post Says.

(Washington Post.)

Not the least momentous of the results of the Democratic caucus yesterday was the re-election of Hon. Ike Hill, of Ohio, to the place in the House of Representatives which he has occupied for many years, and the duties of which he has discharged with untiring efficiency, grace and patience. To give a name to the position would be to mislead the country. "Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms" is a mere phrase. It has a high and thrilling sound, perhaps, but it describes nothing. That is to say, it describes nothing so far as concerns the beauty, the utility, the benevolence and the altruism of the Hon. Ike Hill's activities.

The Sergeant-at-Arms is a worthy person, no doubt. We are willing to admit, indeed, that he is an official of great splendor, and in the act of carrying the mace—a spectacle of surpassing majesty. He quells the rising tumult. He seats the perpendicular and vociferous firebrand. He has been known in great emergencies to produce an impression upon James Hamilton Lewis and "Papa" Cannon. Let it go at that! We drop this tribute to greatness, on passant, as they say on the Riviera. But how many know of the quiet, modest, loving ministrations of Colonel Ike? He lets the guady and ostentatious pageant run along. No shimmering liveries for him; no prancing pride or caracolous notoriety. For him the sympathizing touch, the valuable steer, the guarding word, the fatherly advice. He knows—Colonel Ike does—what is good for the throbbing temples and the burning brow. He carries with him always a noble freight of help and consolation. In his benign philosophy there is no such thing as party antagonism. On his paternal knee the stricken Republican, the Populist, Prohibitionist may lay an aching head and find relief. He dispenses bromo, braces, kind words and sweet encouragement with a tender and an equal hand. He is, in fact, the guide, philosopher and friend of all. He is a Santa Claus who bears gifts every day—and night—from the beginning of the session to the end.

Elected! Why, the House could not do without him. There are hundreds, with larger titles, wider influences and greater power, who never would be missed. Colonel Ike Hill is as necessary to the Capitol as its dome, as its restaurants, as its porticoes and terraces. He is its reservoir of the milk of human kindness, its fountain of homely wisdom and genuine solicitude. Long may he wave!

COMMOTION

IN PUBLIC SCHOOL CIRCLES OF JOHNSTOWN.

School Board Can't Agree Over Selection of a Latin Teacher—Before County Commissioners.

There is quite a commotion in school circles in the neighboring village of Johnstown in the High school. Miss Boughton, it is claimed, has been teaching without being properly certified by the county school examiners. A petition has been circulated and signed asking that Miss Boughton be prohibited from teaching and that John W. Adams one of the county school examiners, be assigned to teach in her place. The Board of Education of Johnstown came down to the city Wednesday morning in full force, consisting of J. P. Wright, President; C. M. Ross, Clerk; Dr. C. A. Burke; Dr. F. M. Preston and C. V. Armstrong, and the hearing of the case was had before the county commissioners because the board failed to employ a teacher who could give instruction in Latin.

The commissioners dismissed the case and the board at Johnstown must settle the matter.

GAS FRANCHISE—The proposition of J. T. English, Martin Flanagan and others of this city, comprising one of the new gas companies, to lay pipes and furnish natural gas to the citizens of Mansfield, was defeated in a council meeting held in that city on Tuesday night by a vote of 11 to 5.

A BONE OF CONTENTION

By Mrs. M. L. Rayne.

A pyramid of bones and among them one of such manifest destiny that it attracted the eye as if by magic, a wicked looking bone with bony legs and two ill shaped feet, an instrument of fate endowed with strange power in love affairs, half sister to the horse show, that weird bit of social demology, a chicken's wishbone.

The fact is always emphasized when the modern black art is practiced that the bone must belong to a chicken; but, as no other fowl, not excepting the bird of America, the turkey, possesses such an appendix, the distinction seems unnecessary.

The bone on the pyramid was rescued from destruction by the white fingers of a girl, who dressed it and hung it over the outside door. When it had been lodged there an hour, a man came in. He was tall, and as he came under the "conjure" he brushed it with his head and dislodged it.

"Well, you're it," laughed the girl as she stooped and picked it from the floor. "That is the first time you ever came under the wishbone."

"Will you break it with me, Nell? You know I believe in it as an omen. We will both wish, and the one that gets the wish piece must tell the other what wish was made."

"Oh, let's tell beforehand. Health and prosperity is all I wish for. Am I not moderate?"

"I wish," said the man, "that we are married at Christmas and live happily ever."

"That sounds like the ending to a dime novel love story. Seeing that we are not even engaged, it would take a stronger force than that of a wishbone to marry us by Christmas."

Nell, will you marry me?"

She had waited seven years for this, and now that it had come it was most welcome, and it angered her that a miserable chicken bone could supply an opportunity for this laggard in love. A panorama of war flashed across her horizon, the glint of arms, the flutter of flags, a soldier promoted for bravery, then forgetfulness and silence. She looked at the serious, stolid face of the man as he stood holding the arbiter of human destinies between thumb and forefinger and decided:

"Yes, David, but please do not give your chicken bone too much credit. You may not get your wish after all."

It went apart with a snap, and David held the long piece, and his satisfaction over it was immense.

"Well, it worked, didn't it? We will keep the pieces, and they will bring us good luck. I have always had the greatest faith in wishbone omens."

"Yet it was necessary that it should fall and strike you before you accepted its dictum," suggested Nell.

David Wilson wrapped the bone of fate in a tissue paper covering and laid it away carefully among his cherished possessions. Nell dropped hers into her glovebox, wished the chicken that owned it had never been born, rated herself for a fool and sat down to have a good cry.

"Engaged to David Wilson! Why, I might as well be engaged to father. And all I'm doing it for is to show Ransom Hale that I am not breaking my heart for him even if he is wearing five new shoulder straps. The mean thing, never to write a word! Oh, David, you superstitious, good, old stupid, how will I get you off my hands? Seven years of acquaintance ought to count for something. Oh, chicken bone, engine of destiny, how I hate you!"

And the next day when Captain Hale called on Nell and asked her to marry him she consigns all chicken bone wishes to perdition while she made a clean breast of her affair with David. And what the captain meant by holding her in his arms while he heard her story can easily be guessed. Then they went into session as a committee of ways and means to circumvent the plans of destiny set in motion by that wishbone.

A week later David presented himself in a state of abject depression. "I've lost my luck," he said in crape edged tones.

"Lost on a business deal?" suggested Nell warily.

"No; lost my wishbone. I put it away carefully, and now it cannot be found high or low. It has disappeared as if by magic."

"And you are sure no one was in your room?"

"No one but my washerwoman, and I don't know what she wanted there. But she would have no object in stealing a wishbone."

"No, and there would be no magic in a wishbone that would let itself be stolen. Oh, David, that is a bad omen. We must call our engagement off until you find it. Bad luck will follow if you persist in disobeying the omen. We are up against it now."

"I know it. I feel it in my bones," said poor, victimized David mournfully. "Nell, dear, do you think it possible that the cat—ate—it?"

"No," Nell was shaking with laughter, which by a desperate effort she changed into nervous agitation. "I feel that it may mean a warning, and we must obey. We cannot throw ourselves against an oracle. You see, it was not intended that we should marry."

The envoy of fate was never found, as the wicked girl knew right well it never would be, for by her own scheme it was abstracted. So cleverly did she play on the superstitious nature of David that he not only forgave her for marrying Captain Hale, but was himself at the wedding as best man. But every now and then he goes on a still hunt after that lost wishbone.—Chicago Record-Herald.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

A CURE FOR IT.

Not a Patent Cure All, Nor a Modern Miracle But Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making undue claims of false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspeptic Tablets is a radical cure. They go no farther than this and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic of nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial will find that nothing is claimed for it, that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakest or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medical properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in working order or not. It rests the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting and resting the stomach which rapidly regains its proper digestive power, when the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body.

Any druggist will tell you Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give universal satisfaction 11-27-29 12-4-6

GROCERY—Allen R. Uffner, the North Fourth street grocer, is engaged in moving his grocery to 111 West Main street, in the building formerly occupied by Styron & Beggs.

REPAIRS—Mr. J. P. Lamb, the well known grocer, will repair the building on North Fourth street, formerly occupied by Mr. Uffner, and will open another grocery store.

HORSE SHOW—Mr. Thomas Keane, the well known postal clerk of this city, has just returned from a trip to Chicago. While there he dropped in on the big horse show and saw Col. George Crawford and his fine exhibit of horses. He says Col. Crawford is sure to carry away some fine prizes as his exhibit is first class in every respect.

West End Fire.

The fire in the vicinity of the car works this morning demonstrated the urgent need of the early completion of the hose house in the West End. The Central department made a good run, reaching the fire in about eight minutes, but the distance is too far for a team to run with such a heavy load, and the horses were nearly fagged out when they reached Bushy's corner. The residents and property owners in the West End are very anxious that this building be completed and equipped, as there is an increased danger of fires during the winter months.

NORWALK MAN

EMPLOYED FRANK JAMES WHEN HE WAS A FUGITIVE.

James Now an Actor in Newark Today Recalls the Fact to Memory—The Norwalk Story.

Frank James, the exbandit, who has just begun a theatrical engagement in "Across the Desert," which will be seen at the Auditorium tonight arrived with his company in Newark today. A dispatch from Norwalk, O., tells the following interesting incident:

Frank James, the notorious ex-outlaw and train robber, who was in Norwalk with "Across the Desert" company, away back in 1880 was in the employ of W. H. Jefferson, of Florence, Erie county, formerly of Norwalk and father of G. E. Jefferson, of this city.

At that time Mr. Jefferson was engaged in the lumber business in Tennessee, and one of his employees was "D. J. Woodson," a man who was living on a rented farm in that vicinity, and who, Mr. Jefferson has since learned, was none other than Frank James, who was then in hiding trying to escape the vigilance of officers who were in pursuit of him and who would have given much to capture him.

"Woodson" was a quiet, unassuming man, a good worker, and by far the most intelligent man in the employ of Mr. Jefferson and the latter was quite fond of him.

Mr. Jefferson came to Norwalk from Florence to pay a visit to Mr. James, who was stopping at the St. Charles. The two had a long visit together and talked over the old days of the sojourn in Tennessee and before leaving for home Mr. Jefferson was entertained by Mr. James at supper. During the conversation James informed Mr. Jefferson that a man who visited him in Tennessee and whom he introduced as his brother-in-law, was none other than his notorious brother, Jesse James.

TRADE IN THE ORIENT

Supreme Court's Decision Will Revolutionize It.

SO ASSERT THE MANILLA MERCHANTS

Great Excitement and Jubilation Over the Ruling in the Philippines. Huge Collections Must Be Returned and New Methods Adopted to Raise Funds--Natives to Fight Natives.

Manilla, Dec. 4.—There was excitement and jubilation here when the cable announced the United States supreme court's decision in the 14 diamond rings case, that the Philippines were American territory, and that the imposition of duty on articles imported into the United States from the Philippines is improper. Reports of the principal business houses say it will revolutionize the entire trade of the orient, and the civilians and military men are pleased at the prospect of sending presents home without having to pay duty on them. The civil authorities here have not yet formed an opinion on the subject, but they think the law only applies to goods going into the United States, since the decision holds here new means for obtaining funds to run the government will be necessary.

The collector of the port, W. Morgan Shuster, says it means returning the $7,000,000 collected in duties by the customs officials.

Fullly 500 natives of Catabalogan have volunteered to fight the native troops in order to bring peace to Samar. Of these 100 have been accepted. They are armed with bolos and spears and are doing scouting duty under command of Lieutenant Compton.

Terrific Boiler Explosion.

Bedford, Ind. Dec. 4.—In a boiler explosion at a sawmill near Yellow-town, Marion Lutz, Perry Mitchell and Ellis Henderson were instantly killed. Six other persons were injured, some seriously. Lutz was blown to atoms while Mitchell and Henderson were terribly scalded and cut by flying debris. They were dead when picked up.

Printers Enjoined.

Indianapolis, Dec. 4.—Judge John H. Baker of the United States district court made perpetual the injunction issued by him five weeks ago against the strikers at the Conkey printing establishment at Hammond. The injunction prohibited the strikers from in any way interfering with the workmen at the plant.

Prisoner Insane.

Laramie, Wyo., Dec. 1.—William Starr, arrested here as a fugitive from justice in Texas, has become violent and insane and officers are unable to approach him in his cell. His food is being pushed under the cell door. He has armed himself with parts of his bed.

Heavy Snowstorm.

Boston, Dec. 1.—The heaviest snow storm for so early in the winter for years is covering New England. The weather bureau's warning tied up most of the coasting craft, and fortunately so, for Cape Cod life-saving patrols report a terrible night there.

Another Shipping Line.

London, Dec. 4.—The Standard says it believes there is some truth in the rumored negotiations for the transfer to the United States of an important English shipping company and that the deal will involve a financial operation of several million pounds.

GOT TIRED

Lafayette, Ind. Dec. 1.—Four Purdue students—Adams, Hollis, Mosman and Benbaugh—under quarantine with smallpox patient Falloir, on the West Side, eluded the vigilance of the night guard and effected their escape. No trace of the boys has been found, and it is believed they have gone to their respective homes. The restraint of weeks of confinement became so unbearable that they determined to risk being caught and decamped. The health authorities regret the incident as it may result in many being exposed.

Traction Roads Combine.

Hamilton, O., Dec. 4.—The Southern Ohio Traction company, the Hamilton and Lindenwald Electric Transit company, the Cincinnati and Northwestern Railway company and the Miami,burg and Germantown Traction company are soon to be consolidated into one company which will include practically all the roads between Dayton and Cincinnati. These properties are controlled by the Mandelbaum-Pomero syndicate of Cleveland. The capital of the roads exceeds $4,000,000.

Mayor Indicted.

Springfield, Ills., Dec. 4.—The Mac county grand jury indicted Mayor Charles F. Shilling of Decatur for infeasance in office on testimony that Shilling was notified of the existence of gambling and indecent shows on the streets of the city during the carnival this fall, and that he made no effort to suppress either the gambling or the immoral shows.

Strike Called Off.

Pueblo, Colo. Dec. 4.—The strike of local switchmen on the Denver and Rio Grande and Santa Fe roads was called off. It is understood to be an unconditional surrender of the strikers, but the officials will not do anything in the way of sending their names to other roads as an injury to their individual records.

Want the President.

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—At a meeting of the Committee on ceremonies at the world's fair headquarters it was decided to invite President Roosevelt to participate in the ground-breaking ceremonies Dec. 20 by turning a shovel of earth with one of the historic spades to be provided for the occasion.

Five Rounds.

Kansas City, Dec. 4.—Jim Popp, champion lightweight of Canada was given the decision over Billy Armstrong of San Francisco at Turner hall here. In the fifth round Armstrong was in distress and his seconds threw up the sponge.

Professional Jurors.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Cleveland lawyers will ask the coming session of the state legislature to prohibit professional jurors on the ground that they are not impartial in trying cases.

Fatal Gas Explosion.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Dec. 4.—A natural gas explosion at the home of David Yager, on Sand Fork, Lewis county, destroyed the house and everything in it, burned one of Mr. Yager's children to death, fatally burned another and injured Mrs. Yager so that she will probably lose both eyes. The explosion was caused by a valve breaking letting the full pressure of gas into the house. A lighted match did the rest.

Accident on the Stage.

Paris, Dec. 1.—During a rehearsal at the Theatre des Varieties, a staircase, representing the grand staircase of the opera house, collapsed and several persons were seriously injured. These include M. Laseouche, the comedian, and Mlle. Alencon, the well-known actress.

WEDDING AT PERRYTON.

Perryton, O., Dec. 3.—A beautiful home wedding occurred on the 28th of November at the residence of Quin Montgomery, it being the marriage of their charming daughter, Miss Chinnie, to Mr. Morris D. Heyl of Wooster, O. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Holcomb in a beautiful and impressive manner. The guests were mainly relatives of the bride and groom. The presents were numerous and valuable. The young couple will go to housekeeping at Wooster in a short time. Mrs. Winter and daughter and Miss Fleming of Newark were among the guests. Mr. Charles Fleming of Hanover, and Mr. Floyd Norris of Colorado, were also present. A fine dinner was served and all went very happily. We lose one of our most estimable young ladies in Miss Chinnie.

ODD FELLOWS' ELECTION.

Lock, O., Dec. 3.—On last Saturday night Centerburg Lodge No. 666 I. O. O. F. elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Noble Grand, C. C. Herliocher, Vice Grand, George Chisman, Rec. Sec., Wm. Parmer; Fin. Sec., M. F. Haggan, Treasurer, George Pearson, Trustee, H. E. Watson.

HUNTING A TRAMP.

Perryton, O., Dec. 4.—Parties were here from Wapatomika Sunday morning at 1 o'clock in pursuit of a tramp accompanied by a little girl, who was believed to have found a pocket book containing $400 in currency that was dropped by Mrs. Dickinson, while driving near that place on Thursday afternoon. He was reported to have stayed all Friday night at Wilkin, six miles from Newark.

MISS LEAK SCALDED.

Macbride, O., Dec. 4.—Miss Grace Leak was severely scalded about the face one day last week. It was thought at first she would lose the sight of one eye, but the present indications are that she will completely recover.

Rayner and Reed.

When Isidor Rayner, counsel for Admiral Schley, was a member of congress, Thomas B. Reed asked him what his attitude was as to glass. "We both live in glass houses and had better change the subject," was Mr. Rayner's rejoinder. Reed and Rayner were frequently in some verbal duel. "Did not the gentleman hear my speech Saturday?" thundered Mr. Reed on one occasion.

Leaders Dined.

Washington, Dec. 4.—President Roosevelt entertained at dinner a number of the Republican leaders in the senate and house. His guests included Speaker Henderson, Senators Allison, Platt of Connecticut, Hanna, Cullom, Proctor, Elkins, Perkins, Scott, Beveridge, Kean, Representatives Cannon, Grosvenor and Dalzell and General Leonard Wood.

New Governor of Oklahoma.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The secretary of the interior telegraphed William Grimes, secretary of Oklahoma, to act as governor until the newly appointed governor, Mr. Ferguson, takes charge. The latter took the oath of office here Tuesday.

Expected in England as Result of Roosevelt's Message.

LORD ROTHSCHILD'S APT PREDICTION

President's Conception of Reciprocity Not Appreciated by the People of the British Isles—Germany Satisfied With the Document—Foreign Comment on the American State Paper.

London, Dec. 4.—The London daily papers, looking at President Roosevelt's message from the point of view of its literary power and the wealth of its literary matters discussed, regard it as one of the most characteristic and remarkable messages ever sent to congress. At the same time the papers recognize its conservative and businesslike moderation, and that no attempt has been made, as The Morning Post remarks, "to strike an attitude or carry its listeners away." On the whole, however, the newspapers are skeptical of any great outcome from the president's efforts in the direction of reform of the trusts, anti-anarchism or reciprocity, the idea being that the senate will effectually step in and stop any great changes in the existing system.

"Mr. Roosevelt's first message," said Lord Rothschild, "certainly seems statesmanlike and should produce a good effect in England and the rest of Europe, where its careful friendly references to the other powers will be much appreciated. But his declaration that reciprocity must be treated as the handmaiden of protection will raise a howl here in England for protective duties. If reciprocity is only to be a handmaiden it will not do England much good. This enunciation will set on foot an unprecedented agitation for the restoration of at least partial protection here."

"In spite of the history of the fetish of free trade, it would not be at all surprising to see protection return to England. What can we do? We have got little we can now supply to the United States. She makes pretty nearly everything for herself and is daily sending us most of her surplus product. If we do not go in for some form of protection we are likely to lose what little trade we still have here, especially in view of President Roosevelt's conception of reciprocity."

German Comment.
Berlin, Dec. 4.—The first impression of the president's message in German official circles is that the repression of anarchists by international agreement is much more likely to be carried through upon the initiative of the United States than by that of any other power. An anti-anarchist proposition from Germany along the same lines as that of President Roosevelt is probably already on its way to the state department at Washington. Taking the message altogether, it has been favorably received, both popularly and officially. The references it contains to the late Empress Frederick are especially appreciated.

Prize Cattle.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—A Hereford is the grand champion of all breeds in the fat cattle division of the International Live Stock exposition this year. Chief interest for breeders centered in the winner of the grand championship for steers or spayed heifer of the show. There were three competing breeds, Hereford, Shorthorn and Angus, but in the final judging the Shorthorns were eliminated. The winning animal's Wood's Principal, a pure bred yearling shown by George P. Henry of Goodenow, Ills. This animal weighed 1,645 pounds.

Anti-Saloon League.

Washington, Dec. 1.—A general meeting of the National Anti-Saloon league was held at the Congressional church, at which former Governor Sidney Perham of Maine presided. The chief address was made by Rev. Dr. Luther B. Wilson of Washington, the acting president of the organization. He declared that the saloon must go. He declared that its existence fostered anarchy. In the murder of President McKinley at Buffalo he said the anarchy about which so much is published seems to have reached its limit and to have done its worst, but he added there is another kind of anarchy fostered by the saloon more deadly than that which strikes down the rulers of nations.

Wabash Inquest.

Adrian, Mich., Dec. 4.—It is expected that the coroner's jury which has been investigating the cause of the death of the victims of the disastrous wreck on the Wabash railroad near Seneca last Wednesday night, in which so many Italian immigrants were crushed and burned to death, will render a verdict today. The taking of testimony was finished. The testimony brought out the fact that there were three different interpretations among the crew of the east-bound train No. 4 of the orders under which the train was running.

Waffles & Pancake Flour

There is just enough rice flour in our pancake mixture to make the cakes or waffles brittle and tender. Rice flour is an imported article. Were it omitted we would make more money, but you could not have such fine waffles and pancakes.

HARFINA SOAP

is made from pure vegetable oils and being medicated destroys all disease germs, keeps the skin soft and velvety. Cures pimples, blotches, freckles and sunburn. Unexcelled for the bath, nursery and complexion, and makes the hair fine, soft and silken. 25c. Cakes at drug shops. Never fails to restore gray or faded hair to its youthful color and beauty.

MOTHER DIED TONIGHT.

"Your mother died tonight"—that's all it said:
But, somehow, in that simple line I read
The last sad words of love and sympathy,
The last heart-blessing that she gave to me,
The admonitions that all went amiss,
And what God ne'er can give—her farewell kiss;
The fadeless picture as she knelt to pray
That she might meet me up above—some day.
"Your mother died tonight" is all it said,
As on the throbbing wire the tidings sped
From that old, happy home, from which I came,
To strive anew for honor and for fame,
To toil with will to win a golden store
To lay in solemn suppliance at her door;
But shattered are the hopes, unnerfed the might,
But that sad message, "Mother died tonight!"
O stars that guide through heaven's unfathomed sea,
May I not meet in Alcyone?
Oh, let me know, as oft in childhood's harms,
That peace found only nestling in her arms
Gone the gray hair, the eyes that wept in vain,
Gone the sad smile I ne'er shall see again,
Gone the true heart, the soft, love-laden breast,
Gone the one mother to her last long rest
—Robert Mackay in December Success.

Convince yourself that Ely's Cream Balm deserves all that has been said of it as a means of quick relief and final cure in obstinate cases of nasal catarrh and hay fever. A trial size costs but ten cents. Full size, 50 cts. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Messrs. Ely Bros.—Please send me one bottle of Cream Balm, family size. I think it is the best medicine for catarrh in the world. Very respectfully,
J. M. SCHOLT.

Krause's Headache Capsules

are unlike anything prepared in America. They were first prescribed by Dr. Krause, Germany's famous court physician, long before antipyrine was discovered, and are almost marvelous, so speedily do they cure the most distressing cases. Price 25c. Sold by all druggists.

Philadelphia claims that raising the retail license tax from $500 to $1,100 has reduced the number of city saloons from 5,773 to 1,713 since 1887, and has knocked 4,000 arrests for drunkenness from a year's record.

ABOUT CHILDREN'S READING.

What should children between six and twelve years of age read?

Answers to this question have lately been given by Kate Douglass Wiggin, Mary Mapes Dodge, Edward Everett Hale, Horace E. Scudder, Agnes Repplier, Tudor Jenks and others, together with some extremely sensible and interesting suggestions as to the principles underlying the choice of children's books. Here is a single typical list from the ten included in the article which The Outlook publishes in its Annual Book Number. The list is that furnished by Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, Editor of Saint Nicholas.

1. "Alice in Wonderland." 2. Hans Andersen's Fairy Tales. 3. Hawthorne's "Wonder Book" or the "Tanglewood Tales." 4. "Gulliver's Travels." 5. Kipling's "Jungle Books" (or Seton-Thompson's "Wild Animals I Have Known" or Harris's "Uncle Remus"). 6. Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast" or (Nansen's "Farthest North," or Kennan's "Tent Life in Siberia"). 7. Scott's "Ivanhoe" (or Howard Pyle's "Robin Hood," or Lanier's "The Boy's King Arthur"). 8. Gibson's "Eye-Spy" or some other good nature book. 9. Cooper's "Leather Stocking Tales" (or Stevenson's "Kidnapped"). 10. Schudder's "Children's Book" (or Miss Repplier's "Book of Famous Verse").

A New Zealand paper reports that Robert Louis Stevenson's grave in Samoa is overgrown with weeds and is in some danger of being lost altogether. Many persons used to visit it, but it is said that the yearly average is now something like six.

AMUSEMENTS.
Frank James of Missouri, the brother of the late Jesse James, is at last on the stage in "Across the Desert." For nineteen years he has lived down a past that was fought with hardship and adventure. Since the great event of his life, when he appeared before Gov. Crittenden, of Missouri, on Oct. 5, 1882, and surrendered his revolvers, each of 45 calibre, one of Smith & Weston, the other a Colt, with the remark: "Governor, you are the first man since 1861 that ever touched those revolvers save myself." Hundreds of theatrical managers have offered him enormous salaries; he refused them all, because he had no desire at that time to make an appearance in a blood and thunder play, that demanded of him the use of the revolver or the knife. Had Frank James lived in the Fifteenth century, when "Knighthood was in flower," he would have been an ideal knight, being an educated man, always a protector and admirer of the fair sex, whose chivalrous manners and bravery always in his younger days made him a man who won respect and admiration. It was those who wronged him that found him a bitter enemy. He is a man who never broke a promise. His mother and family were his idols; his ambition has always been to be a dutiful son, husband and father. Circumstances of his early life, when border warfare in Missouri and Kansas compelled all to side with or against slavery ideas, when both Federal and Confederate troops foraged from the farmer, took his horses, cattle, stock and grain, and left him nothing but vengeance in his heart; when his mother, whom he loved with devotion, had an arm shot from her body; a little brother wantonly murdered; a stepfather hung to a tree until life was nearly extinct—it was then the bright sunshine of life was obscured by darkened clouds. Do you think that Frank James, with a love for home and fire-side, did more than you would have done? Who followed out the divine ideas of life for life, a tooth for a tooth. Thousands will flock to see this man, whose daring, courage and chivalrous conduct made him a hero after his surrender. Knowing full well that he has made a record as a dutiful father, son and husband, since he surrendered to the governor of Missouri, who gave him a pardon for the past, with his promise for the future; and Frank James has never broken that promise. He appears in every performance of "Across the Desert," as a benefactor of mankind, a true American, an ideal citizen, which is quite a prominent part and those who go and see him at the Auditorium tonight will avail themselves of one chance in a lifetime, for this is the only public appearance Mr. James will ever make, for after the present engagement, he intends to settle down to private life on his ranch in the west.

FIELD'S MINSTRELS COMING.
We live in a rapid age, the swiftest this old Earth has ever known. Steam and electricity in all their many uses have revolutionized business, and set a pace which keeps man's nerves a-tingle day after day. The price paid for even moderate success in the mercantile world is a heavy one, sapping a man's strength and vitality and making him old in body and mind long before his time. This is true more or less of all of us who are not idlers in the world's great workshop. But a difference is to be noted in those wise enough to take a little relaxation; and those who deny themselves to everything but the calls of business cares. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," runs the old saying, and it is true of the man as the boy. Take a timely word of advice. Don't tie yourself down to business altogether. Spare an evening now and then and enjoy yourself in some harmless amusement. It is the best tonic you can take and you do not have to go to the seashore or the mountains for it either. Go to the theatre some evening when comedy holds the boards. If it is a good minstrel show, so much the better. And if it is the Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels, it is better still. You can take your family to this great minstrel attraction, secure in the knowledge the show will be clean and pure. Mr. Field, who is now in his seventeenth annual tour, through most careful catering has attained a reputation for cleanliness and originality in his productions. An evening spent in the society of his jolly comedians, sweet singers and tuneful musicians—one delightful night, replete with the wealth of scenic splendor and gorgeous costumes with which his production abounds—two and a half hours of enjoyment with his incomparable repertory of European and American special features, will offset a month's wear and tear of business. At the Auditorium Saturday night, Dec. 7.

NEXT MONDAY NIGHT.
A hero in whose soul burns sacrificial fires, another who loves and is loved in the same old way, a villain who loves the same girl, another who will commit any crime provided he gets his price, a tall funny man, a short ditto, a heroine who is rich, another who isn't, and a mischievous soubrette, are some of the characters in "Dangers of Paris." We've all seen them in various surroundings, but we have never seen them as they are in this play. It isn't the characters alone, it's the way they live and breathe, the fact that they understand men and women in a drama which reaches the height of sensational realism makes them interesting. We all feel that in their places we'd do the same as they do. It is no wonder the play has lived so long in England. "Dangers of Paris" will be produced with its wealth of scenery at the Auditorium next Monday evening, December 9.

Crocker's Future.
New York, Dec. 4.—In an interview with Richard Crocker, The Evening Post quotes the Tammany leader as saying: "You won't see much more leading on my part in the future. I am getting old and worn out, and I can't be a field horse for everybody any longer. I admit that the leader of Tammany hall should stay in New York all the year round, and I can't stay here for more than a part of the year. If I tried to stay here all of the time I could do no work at all. All this talk about my being state leader and trying to dictate in national politics is nonsense. I am in no condition to do any kind of leading, but of course I will always take deep interest in Tammany."

Stock Traders Retire.
Chicago, Dec. 4.—John Dupee and his firm, Schwartz, Dupee & Company, who are prominent in the grain and stock trade in Chicago and the east, announced that the firm will retire from business Jan. 1 next. The co-partnership expires by limitation on that day. Schwartz-Dupee, as the house is known in the trade, has been the largest in the speculative grain trade on the board of trade since its organization in 1883. The members have made more money than those of any other house in the business, and their announcement to quit came as a great surprise.

Philippine Decision.
Washington, Dec. 4.—It was stated at the war department that the decision of the United States supreme court in the insular cases do not call for any change in the existing tariff arrangements in the Philippines, and that it was not even deemed necessary to issue instructions to the governor of the islands on the subject. The secretary of the treasury issued to collectors of customs in the United States a telegraphic order directing them to admit free of duty goods imported from the Philippines.

Massachusetts Elections.
Boston, Dec. 4.—Snow and rain made disagreeable weather in 14 of the 22 cities of Massachusetts that held municipal elections. Of the 14 cities, 11 went license, a gain of one over last year, the change being in Pittsburg. The great feature of the elections as a whole was the remarkable success of the Republican party, 10 mayoralty candidates of that party winning and carrying with them in nearly every instance a city council in sympathy with them.

Ruling on Indians.
Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 4.—Judge Sanborn of the federal court at South McAlester has decided that after Indians become citizens they are still wards of the government, and that after Indian Territory shall be allotted and the Indians are voters, it will still be a crime to sell whisky.

SUMMIT STATION.
An overcoat and hat was found at Beem Brothers clay works. They are supposed to belong to the person who robbed Mr. J. M. Beem's house. A dress coat and vest belonging to Mr. J. M. Beem was also found in Mr. Winters' barn at Hoboken.

Excavating for the Columbus Clay Works was commenced on Monday. Mr. T. A. Beem says that he has purchased most of the machinery, and that he expects to put 30 or 40 hands at work in about six weeks. They intend having the works in operation as soon as possible.

Mrs. J. S. Axline and daughter, Daisy, visited in Johnstown on Sunday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Tharr.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles King of Lima, Mr. W. T. King and family, James Reynolds and family, all of Columbus, and J. T. Sanford and family and J. S. Axline took dinner with the family of Mr. William King of Hebron on Sunday.

John Milburn, who works at Chicago Junction, and who has been visiting his parents on Mink street for some days, returned to his work this week.

Many of the farmers in this vicinity are complaining of the scarcity of water.

Miss Etta Tharp of Johnstown, is spending a few days with Miss Daisy Axline at her home here.

The M. E. protracted meeting is in progress and is being well attended.

JERSEY.
Mr. James Woodruff, an old and respected citizen died at his home west of here Saturday night. Funeral was held at the home Tuesday at 11 a. m. Interment in cemetery here.

Will Merrill and wife of New Albany were guests of Jacob Cornell Sunday. P. C. Meredith went to Columbus on Sunday.

A number of young people were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Alberly Wednesday night. Dancing was the amusement of the evening.

Mrs. L. P. Condit was quite sick last week with tonsillitis.

Mrs. E. W. Metcalf and son Wohlre were the guests of S. E. Meredith last week.

HOSPITAL ENTERTAINMENT.
The Hospital course of entertainments to be presented in Newark this season beginning next month will be exceptionally good.

Tickets for the course will be on sale by the last of the week or not later than December 10th.

The first number of the series will be the Peisian Garden Company consisting of Miss Rachel B. Frease, soprano; Mrs. W. A. Lafferty, contralto; S. T. Beddoe, tenor; D. T. Moore, baritone; Miss Julia T. Parks, accompanist. The Butler, Pa., Times, says:

"One of the finest musical treats ever enjoyed by a Butler audience was that heard in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on Thursday evening, when the first of the series of concerts given under the auspices of Charles N. Boyd, of Pittsburg, was rendered. It is seldom that a concert company 'catches' a Butler audience with the rendition of the first number, but such was the case when the quartet rendered 'The Miller's Wooing,' and during the first part of the program Miss Frease, Mrs. Lafferty, Mr. Beddoe and Mr. Moore each responded to hearty encores. The second part of the program consisted of the song cycle, 'In a Persian Garden,' and in this the singers again demonstrated their abilities as musical artists. The skillful accompaniment of Mr. Boyd was also much enjoyed by the audience."

THE BURNED WILL
Marie Richards stood looking from the kitchen window of the New England farmhouse that had sheltered her for the past fifteen years. Her uncle and aunt, the Winthrops, had adopted her when she was left an orphan two years of age, and they had never regretted it, for she had been a joy and comfort to them in their home, while their only child, a son, had brought to them nothing but sorrow.

Mr. Winthrop had spent his life perfecting his farm, of which he was very proud, and the thought that after his death his son Duncan would squander it away in a very short time so vexed him that after his wife's death he made a will giving everything he had to his adopted daughter, Marie, excepting $1,000 bequeathed to his son.

The whole neighborhood knew that such a will had been made, but now that the old man was dead and buried it was not to be found, and Duncan's name was mentioned in whispers of foul play.

Marie stood looking sadly upon the fields of waving grain and watching the birds flutter here and there. How happy they were together! Watching them made her realize her own loneliness, so she turned her gaze upon the highway and saw Duncan Winthrop approaching the house. Presently he stood before her—a young man that can be described by the one word profligate.

"I am going to sell the farm next week and came to tell you, so you can vacate these premises," said he, while watching the effect his words had upon the face before him.

"You are going to sell the farm?" repeated Marie in a dazed way, trying to realize all that meant for her.

"Yes, I need the money and must have it."

"But where can I go?"

"That you must decide for yourself. You have had a good home here for fifteen years, and it is about time you began to get your own living."

"But Father Winthrop never intended to leave me destitute. He told me that he had made a will providing for me, and it will surely be found."

Duncan Winthrop smiled and pulled from his pocket a paper which he opened and held up for Marie to see. It was not such an elaborate affair as wills are nowadays, but a small sheet of letter paper, on which were written in as few words as possible John Winthrop's wishes in regard to the disposal of his estate after his death and signed by three witnesses.

"Is that the will?" questioned Marie in astonishment.

"That is the will," was the curt reply.

"Where did you get it?"

"I stole it. Do you think I would let any one else get possession of it? It makes all the difference in the world to me who has it, and to make myself wholly safe I think I'll destroy it now."

So saying, he walked to the kitchen stove, where a small fire was burning, and placing the open paper upon the coals, stood and watched the flames devour it. Marie, spellbound, watched it also.

"I shall inform Lawyer Ferris immediately what you have done," she exclaimed as the last bit of flame flickered out.

"Will you?" returned Duncan, with a laugh, replacing the cover upon the stove. "And how will you prove it, for I shall say I didn't?"

"They will believe me."

"Perhaps, but as long as you can prove nothing I can snap my fingers at what they believe. So now you must see it will be necessary for you to find new lodgings very soon." Then he left the house, and Marie stood irresolutely watching him pass down the road out of sight.

Has Made Astonishing Discovery.
The scientific world is greatly excited over the discovery recently made by Professor Edward C. Pickering of the Harvard observatory. Professor Pickering has, through instantaneous photography, succeeded in obtaining the first spectrum of lightning ever secured. The result proved to be an unexpected and astonishing revelation, for, as Professor Pickering interprets it, the spectrum of lightning proves that the element hydrogen is probably WEAKNESS.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Gives Strength and Health to Women Who Work.

The army of women who work in stores, factories, offices, homes, all have their slaves. Day after day the same hard routine. No time to be sick. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the honest aid such hard workers need. It is the one safe and sure strengthener. There is no exaggeration in saying that multitudes of women have been helped by it.

Miss Ida Hunter, 236 W. 121st St., New York City, says: "I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Everything I did made me feel worse. I was unable to stand anything. I was so tired that I had to force myself to go to work. I was suffering from dizziness and sick headaches. My back ached so that I felt like lying down all the time, and I had a bearing down feeling that would not stand. I was always 'blue' and depressed, and felt weak and tired and languid, and utterly unfit to attend to any work. 'Someone suggested that I take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I did so, and I want everyone to know how much good Dr. Greene's Nervura did me, and how thankful I am for it. If all the women and girls who have to work hard would only take Dr. Greene's Nervura, there would be so many breadwinners. Men blame women for being cross and irritable and 'blue.' They don't realize that most women who have to work too hard for their strength. 'Miss Hunter's letter is but one voice out of thousands who owe everything to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Dr. Greene, 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will advise you free. CORONER'S VERDICT ON THE WABASH WRECK.

Rendered Today Censures Nearly Everybody Connected With the Wreck—Local News.

Adrian, Mich., Dec. 4.—The coroner's jury in the terrible Wabash wreck of Thanksgiving eve today censured nearly everybody connected with the wreck. The jury found the Wabash railway negligent, the trainmen of train No. 4 negligent and specially named Engineer Strong and Conductor Martin as being negligent. Engineer Strong who was here today, says he is satisfied with the verdict.

STOCK EXCHANGE RUMOR.

New York, Dec. 4.—There is a wide spread rumor on stock exchange today that negotiations which have been pending for a month have been practically consummated by which the controlling interest in the stock of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific has passed from Chicago owners to interests affiliated with the Pennsylvania railroad.

SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 4.—There has been a continued improvement in the switchmen's strike. More men were at work and the different terminals showed that little congestion exists.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen have secured several experienced men to take the places of the strikers and the result is that traffic is being moved in much quicker time than any day since the strike was inaugurated.

Several more of the switchmen on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at McKeesport came out yesterday, but trains are moving along just as usual. The mills in McKeesport are badly crippled, however, on account of the scarcity of men at work in the yards.

HE MISREAD THE ORDER.

A dispatch from Adrian, Mich., where the coroner's inquest is being held, says: "The most important testimony in the inquest on the Wabash wreck was that Engineer Strong, of train No. 4. He was shown the order produced by Conductor Martin, and said that he had read the order that Train No. 4 should meet Trains Nos. 3 and 13 at Sand Creek, and did not read the word 'Seneca' in the order. He accounted for the error from the fact that the wind was blowing when the order was handed to him by Conductor Martin, and that while he was reading the order, one corner of the paper was blown out and the word 'Seneca' was hidden. When he finished reading the order he did not understand that the word 'Seneca' appeared."

O. & L. K. ROAD SOLD TO B. & O.

The statement was made yesterday by one of the prominent officials of the B. & O. railway that the deal had been consummated whereby the B. & O. purchases the O. & L. K. railway. The contract has been pending for several weeks and was not brought to a close until a few days ago. F. A. Durban, Esq., the president of the O. & L. K. was out of the city last evening and consequently the particulars of the sale could not be learned. The formal transfer of the road will be made some time next week. J. Hope Sutor of the O. & L. K. when questioned regarding the sale stated that he had nothing to say on the subject. Another official of the O. & L. K. said that while he had not been notified of the sale, yet there was not the slightest doubt in his mind but that the B. & O. had purchased the property. There is reason to believe that the B. & O. had bought the O. & L. K. in order to block the Wabash system in its attempts to gain control of the road.—Today's Zanesville Times-Recorder.

PROPOSED NEW NAME.

On account of the endless confusion resulting from the similarity of names it is proposed to change the name of Chicago Junction to Loree, after the president of the B. & O. railroad. The Chicago Times says of the proposed change: "This name is in honor of Mr. L. C. Loree, president of the B. & O. railroad company. It is a short name, easily spelled and pronounced, and would not be a difficult one to remember. So far as we have been able to learn there is not another town in the United States known by the name of Loree."

ARIZONA KICKLETS.

Some Lively Items of News From a Breezy Center.

[Copyright, 1901, by C. B. Lewis.] The fall and winter styles in clothing have been received by our local tailors, and a red woolen shirt and two gus will continue to be about the correct thing.

We are given to understand that there will be more high teas and at homes in Givendale Gulch this winter than ever before and that society will be elevated at least two pegs.

The New York cocktail has been tried here and found to be a flat failure. The idea of a cocktail with our people is to leave a feeling along the throat as if a string of barbed wire fence had been swallowed.

Mr. George Parsons of Tucson writes us that we are a braggart, an egotist, a liar and a scoundrel and that the people of Arizona ought to rise up and drive us forth. Thanks, George! We like to feel bad now and then.

William Johnson, who arrived in this town with two guns and a whoop one day last week, left it last night with three jumps and a sigh. He made several efforts to get up a reputation as a terror, but when the vigilance committee gave him thirty minutes to reach the town line he didn't want but fifteen.

During the last three sessions of the common council the mayor (who is himself) has not had to pull a gun on Alderman Murphy to keep him in his place, and his constituents are wondering whether he has gone down in his boots for good or is waiting to catch us with empty shooters.

We are not finding fault with the governor of this territory, as some of our contemporaries declare. We are simply telling him that there is a better man waiting for his place and that that man is himself. We know we could outshine him ten to one as governor, but he is an obtuse man.

AN UNPROFITABLE JOB.

It was a case of a jealous, suspicious husband with a pretty wife. He had some suspicions which could only be cleared up by having his wife continually watched, and for this purpose it was requisite to have a lady who would go to her as a companion while he was abroad and report to him every little thing she said or did during his absence.

"Good pay," the detective said quietly when I announced my decision of altering my mind and not undertaking it. "You will make $200 in a fortnight, have no expenses and nothing to do but be with the lady and go with her everywhere—theaters, concerts, balls, all sorts of things. Moreover," he went on quietly, "I don't think you will object when you have seen the lady. I have no opinion in the matter at all, but she seems a quiet, sweet little woman, and you may be the means of clearing up this suspicion about her and restoring her happiness. Wait until you have seen her."

I did, and my heart went out to her at once. I felt that by clearing up these suspicions I should be doing one of the best things I had ever done in my life, and I agreed to go to her on the following Monday.

"I don't mind so much when my husband goes away," she said, with a little smile, "because I know it is necessary for his health, but I do feel a little lonely sometimes, of course, and he is always so thoughtful about me in every way. He can't bear to think of my being lonely, so he insisted on my having a lady as companion this time or, he said, he wouldn't go at all."

By the little flush of happiness on her face I knew that as yet she had not the faintest idea that he had such base suspicions of her as to degrade her by having her watched, and I prayed heaven she might never do so. Meanwhile I wrote to the husband every day, giving a detailed account of the way in which each hour of the day and night was spent by her.

I had been told that it was suspected that she had many gentleman visitors, and my instructions were to take particular notice of this. I did so, but the ladies far outnumbered the gentlemen, and those who came were mostly old friends of herself or her husband—consins or distant relatives and a brother who came often. I often wondered what that brother would have thought had he known his sister was being continually watched by a lady detective.

I imagined how he would have loathed and hated the sight of me and how he would have resented my presence there. As it was, he was particularly nice to me and invariably sat near me and chatted pleasantly, on one occasion even going so far as to say how he looked forward to seeing me and how pleased he was his sister had some nice girl to be with her. But when one day he brought me some flowers, with a few whispered words, I felt as if the blossoms themselves would sting me. The room swam in a mist before me, and when I had the courage to look up at him my eyes were swimming in tears. He was looking down at me in a contemplative, curious way, and there was a pleased little smile round his mouth, while his eyes told me something which made my heart beat furiously.

No words can tell how miserable I was or how I wished I had never undertaken such work. I could not stop now I had begun, and I simply longed for the time to end. It was the injured little wife herself who continually—quite unconsciously, of course—tortured me beyond words. She would sit by the hour together telling me of her husband's goodness—what a dear, true fellow he was, how devoted to her, how she really believed he thought she was a perfect angel (this with a little, happy laugh) and how he spoiled her. But the last straw was when one day she confided to me, with a little regretful sigh, that she often felt she was not good enough for such a splendid man; her happiness was more than she deserved, etc.

But the fortnight drew to an end at last, and the husband came home. He was a good, straightforward, honest and honorable man as far as all other things were concerned, but he had been cursed with the demon of jealousy, and the anguish of his own baseless suspicions had well nigh killed him.

I must say I considered he had thoroughly deserved all he had suffered, and when he came to thank me I told him so. As for the money, nothing on earth would have made me take it, and I think even he felt ashamed when I said this.

"You are not fit to touch the ground she walks on," I said indignantly. "She is far too good for you, but you have your life before you, and that is not a bit too much to spend in making up to her for all the injury you have done her."

He took it quietly, and the next day I said goodbye to them, with many tears on her part and mine. There was another reason for these tears—her brother had proposed to me, and I had refused him. It cost me much, but it was impossible under the circumstances, and to prevent his finding me out, which he has declared his intention of doing, I resolved to change my name and, if I could only obtain some small engagement in that line, become an actress.

The Way of the World.

"What's the reason you're not calling on your girl tonight?"

"Oh, I gave that up some time ago."

"Engagement broken?"

"No; we're married."—New York Telegraph.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Furnishing Dining Rooms. Don't have an overmantel of looking glass with little wooden brackets and pillars at the sides. It has a fidgety appearance, and mirrors seem to be somewhat out of keeping in a dining room.

A pretty engraving in a plain deal frame stained to represent the same wood as the furniture is in far better taste and not nearly so expensive, considering that really artistic engravings of good pictures can be bought so cheap.

A still cheaper method is to have a valance of stamped velvet or some oriental tapestry gathered to a little rod which shall be fixed to the wall about two feet above the mantel board, and just above the valance there should be a stained deal shelf to hold pottery.

Don't have any linoleum on the floor. It has such a chilly effect.

Don't have a medley of colors in a dining room, and let those which you decide upon be deep and rich in tone. The reds, blues and greens of the old fashioned Turkey carpets give the three best shades to work with, taking one or at least two for a room.

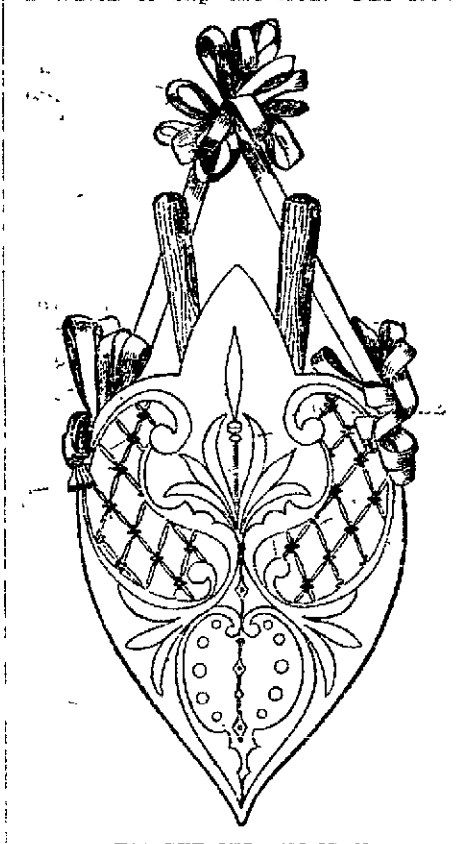

In a small room wall paper, curtains and fablecloths should be of the same color, and the carpet should either be a darker tone of the same or of oriental design.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Christmas Doughnuts.

A necessity of the colonial Christmas table was a generous plate of raised doughnuts. A formula for these which is contributed by a famous New England housekeeper is as follows: One cupful of lard or butter, two cupfuls of milk, a cupful of yeast, three cupfuls of sugar, four or five eggs, nutmeg and a pinch of salt. Warm together the milk and lard, then add the yeast; stir in flour enough to make a batter and let it stand over night; then add the other ingredients. Knead soft and let it rise again; then roll out and let rise before frying. Sprinkle with sugar and spread, not pile, on a platter over which a napkin has first been laid.—Harper's Bazar.

A Dainty Holder.

An especially dainty curling iron holder is shown in the illustration. This is made from buff linen drawn smoothly over a shaped cardboard. A ribbon across the back affords a place in which to slip the iron. The front

FOR THE CURLING IRON.

Is embellished with dainty colors, blue, delicate green, and a touch here and there of black to give character to the whole. The baby ribbon, made into full rosettes at the sides and at the top where it is hung, is of old rose. The combination of colors is soft and artistic.—Housekeeper.

A Firm Paste.

Take a tablespoonful of dry flour and half a teaspoonful of powdered alum, mix slowly with half a teaspoonful of cold water, set on the back of the stove and pour into it another tablespoonful or two of boiling water; stir briskly and cook but a short time. Pour into a wide mouthed bottle while warm and use a wooden paddle to take it out with. The paste may be perfumed and will keep indefinitely. I used this to fasten hanging cords on celluloid picture frames, putting a square piece of stiff white paper over each end of the cord, and it holds as firmly as would a screw on a wooden frame.

That dear old lady, Julia Ward Howe, bids the young housewife to have nothing for show. She says in Good Housekeeping: "Let your rooms look as if they were lived in. Provide convenient cases for your books, comfortable chairs to sit in, tables or desks at which one can write with comfort, pleasant pictures or engravings to look at. Do not envy the melancholy splendor of superfluous apartments rarely opened and full of ghostly shadows. The time and money expended in the care of these possessions are out of all proportion to any pleasure that can be derived from them."

Dyed Carpets.

It is not generally known that carpets can be successfully dyed and thus enter into new life. Almost any style of weave can be so treated; but, of course, ingrain must have no cotton thread on the surface. It is best always to select for the new color something quiet in both color and tone. A dead leaf brown is excellent, while an olive green or dull red is almost as good. Of course the dyed carpet must be a solid color, and this is why only the quietest shades should be chosen.

EXCITING

SCENES AT CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE TODAY.

Reminds One of Old Hutch and Phillips Corners—Wheat, Corn, Oats, All Jump Up.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Scenes reminiscent of the days of Old Hutch and the Phillips "corners" were enacted on the board of trade today when May wheat, corn and oats indulged in a sensational jump, due to the influence of outside holdings and a disposition to hold on in the face of advances. Wheat jumped from 78½ to 79½, the highest point reached since last August. Corn went from 65½ to 67, the highest in nine years. Oats advanced from 43½ to 44½. Excitement on the floor at the noon hour today was intense. Shorts made frantic efforts to buy but met with no success.

East Liberty, Dec. 4.—Today's cattle, steady; light; hogs, light, active, shade higher; sheep, light, steady.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Today's cattle, 15,000, 10 and 15 cents higher; hogs, 50,000 active; sheep 25,000, active.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Today's market closed: May wheat 78½; corn 67½; oats 45½; pork $16.70.

Mr. Colgate Hoyt has just been elected president of the Ohio Society of New York. He succeeded Milton I. Southard, who was a former Granville, Ohio, man.

A little group of friends on the East Side engaged in discussing a problem of some interest to themselves was interrupted by a casual acquaintance who at once proceeded to hand out advice by the yard. The men listened patiently until the intruder had relieved his mind when one of the number wisely remarked: The man who knows the least invariably shows it the most.

Notice To Teachers.

A concern styled "The Teachers' Library Union" has agents in this county and adjoining ones soliciting membership from teachers. Supt. F. Martin Townsend of this city, advises all teachers to communicate with him before agreeing to join, or paying any notes that may have been given to the agents. He has some information that may be of advantage to such teachers, which can be imparted by letter.

FINE MEMORIAL ADDRESS.

The Sandusky Daily Star of Tuesday prints a large portrait of Judge E. M. P. Brister's memorial address, before the Elks last Sunday, which it introduces as follows:

"The address of the day was given by E. M. P. Brister a prominent attorney of Newark, O. It was a masterly address, the thought being beautiful, and although quite lengthy it held the attention of the audience to the last. Owing to the rush of other matters, but a small part can be published, though this is to be regretted."

Oldest Federal Judge.

Judge John Jay Jackson of Parkersburg, W. Va., who recently celebrated his fortieth anniversary as judge of the federal court for the northern district of that state, is the oldest federal judge in point of service in the United States. On Aug. 3, 1861, he was handed by Attorney General Edward Bates a commission signed by Abraham Lincoln appointing him judge of the then western district of Virginia. Judge Jackson is the only living appointee of President Lincoln. When off the bench, Judge Jackson is a pleasant companion, full of wit, humor and energy, and appreciates a good joke as much as any of his associates.

Woman in the Dock.

In three of the most prominent of the criminal cases now awaiting decision by the courts of this country women are the defendants. Mrs. Jane Toppin, a nurse, is accused of poisoning one or more of her patients and will have to meet the charge in the courts of Massachusetts.

MRS. IDA LOLA BONINE.

charged. Mrs. Elizabeth Howe Dale is charged with causing the death of her five-year-old daughter by poisoning in a Hoboken hotel.

Just now the trial of Mrs. Ida Lola Bonine in Washington, charged with the murder of young James S. Ayres, a census department clerk, is the leading of these three cases in public interest. Mrs. Bonine is the wife of a traveling salesman. She has two young sons.

MISS MILLER

Who Was Thrown Out of a Buggy in a Runaway Near Croton Returns to Newark.

Miss Daisy Miller returned to her home on Elm street from Croton today still suffering much from her injuries received in a runaway, details of which were telephoned from Hartford to the Advocate Saturday.

Miss Miller states that while visiting Miss Ola Smith two miles south of Croton, she with Miss Ola and her two cousins from Fredonia on returning from town on Friday evening, the horse began kicking while going down hill and ran a short distance and in the meantime throwing Miss Miller out of the buggy.

After being taken to the home of her aunt, a doctor was called. Miss Miller had fallen upon a stone and her injury was very painful but it is thought that she will quickly recover.

DEMAND FOR ENGINES.

The general demand for locomotives on the part of the railroad companies in this country is unprecedented. The car shortage, which has checked traffic in various parts of the country, is aggravated by the lack of heavy motive power on the principal railroad systems. Orders for locomotives for delivery within a month have overrun all the locomotive works and both the American Locomotive Company and the Baldwin Locomotive Company have all the work booked they can attend to for six months to come. Applications from Europe for American locomotives are treated coldly, for the reason that the plants in this country even working at full capacity and overtime, cannot supply the home demand. The Pennsylvania road has placed orders for 400 engines as its allotment for the coming year, divided between the Baldwin and Altoona shops.—Pittsburg Post.

POINTS

In the President's Message—Full Text of Which Was Published in the Advocate on Tuesday.

To many who had no time to read the fifteen column message of President Roosevelt published yesterday, the following short synopsis of the principal points will be of interest: ANARCHY—Keep anarchists out of the country by law. Deport them. Punish sympathizers the same as anarchists. Give federal courts jurisdiction over assailants of presidents.

TRUSTS—Do not prohibit, but supervise and control them. Establish government inspection of corporations doing interstate business. Create Secretary of Commerce and Industries.

WAGE WORKERS—Re-enact Chinese exclusion law. Abolish competition of convict labor. Favor eight-hour day. Endorse unions with law-abiding respect for rights of others. Strengthen immigration laws against cheap labor.

TARIFF—Make only such changes as are in harmony with reciprocity.

MERCHANT MARINE—Favor ship subsidy.

INSULAR POLICY—Continue present policy. Grant government franchises in Philippine islands. Lay Pacific cable. Reduce tariff on goods from Cuba.

ARMY AND NAVY—Build more ships, but the army is large enough. Enforce merit system.

AGRICULTURE—Value of the forests. Establish preserves for wild animals. Government irrigation for new homesteads.

CARACAN CANAL—Treaty endorsed.

MONROE DOCTRINE—Its enforcement urged for all the Americas.

All Physicians recommend Consumers Beer.

Conscience is a good deal like an alarm clock. We get so used to it that we don't mind.

Neil—"I wouldn't marry a cross-eyed man." Belle—"Why not?" Neil—"He would never know if my hat was on straight."

Wigg—"It's queer how time flies." Wagg—"Yes; you would think that clocks ought to have wings instead of hands and feet."

IN OLDEN TIMES People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently overcome habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system. Buy the genuine, made by the California Fig-Syrup Company.

How a Blind Man Can Tell Time.

Perhaps many people have noticed that the blind man who plays the hand organ day after day at Grand avenue bridge has a watch in his pocket. He has a watch and can tell time too.

Yesterday a man dropped a nickel in his cup and, noticing the watch, asked him for the time. It was a queer question to ask, but he saw the watch and wanted to know whether the blind man was simply pretending to be sightless.

"I think I can tell," said the blind man. He held it up close to his ear and slowly turned the stem winder.

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight," he counted, and then he said: "That means seventy-two minutes. I wound up the watch tightly at 3 o'clock, and so the time ought to be about twelve minutes past 4. Here, look and see how near I came to it."

His questioner looked, and the time was 4:18. He was only six minutes off.

"Do you mean to say that you can tell the time of day by winding up your watch?"

"Not exactly, but I can come mighty near it, usually within ten minutes, and it's very easy too. All you have to know is how one long click in winding up will run the watch. I'll explain. Suppose that at 3 o'clock I wind up my watch until it is tight, as we say—that is, until another turn of the winder would apparently break a spring. At 5 o'clock I wind the watch again and find that the winder clicks twelve times before the watch is wound up to the place where it sticks. Then I know that twelve clicks will run the watch 120 minutes and that one click represents ten minutes of time."

The Electric Light.

The electric light was exhibited for the first time in the United States at the Centennial exposition, but those who saw it were skeptical regarding the possibility of using it upon any scale that would be of practical benefit to mankind.

While arc lighting was produced upon a commercial scale in 1877, the real history of the art as regards its modern aspects dates from the opening of the Pearl street station in New York city by Thomas A. Edison on Sept. 4, 1882, in which the Edison incandescent lamp was used.

In nineteen years this industry has grown to where the investment in electric lighting plants in the United States alone now reaches the enormous sum of $700,000,000, according to a very careful tabulation made by The Electrical Review of New York.

This extraordinary achievement represents a struggle with powerful and well-organized competition of a long established industry—that of gas illumination. It made its way against bitter opposition, against corrupt councils and the difficulties and failures incident to overcapitalization to where it is now, one of the solid, certain and remunerative industries of the country.

Kodiak, Not Kadiak.

On the coast of Alaska, near Cook inlet, is a large island which has had trouble with its name—trouble with its spelling, trouble with its pronunciation.

The spelling now adopted by the United States board of geographical names is Kodiak (pronounced Ko-di-ak), this being a reversal of the decision Kadiak made by the same board about ten years ago. The universal local usage as to this name is Kodiak. Such, also, is the general usage on the Pacific coast. It is this widely extended and firmly established usage which has led the board to discard an alleged "correct" form and adopt an alleged "corrupt" form which local usage has firmly established.—National Geographic Magazine.

Its Effect on Kitchener.

A British officer who has served in South Africa and is now in the United States tells a characteristic story of Lord Kitchener. A young subaltern in charge of some construction work in upper Egypt had the misfortune to lose a native workman through the accidental explosion of several cases of dynamite. Fearful of a reproof from his superiors, he telegraphed to the sirdar, "Regret to report killing of ten laborers by dynamite accident." He awaited the expected rebuke with fear and trepidation.

In a few hours came this laconic dispatch: "Do you need any more dynamite?"

"Tis a busy world, dear friends, and if you would have people listen patiently to our story we must be brief. Dr. Barrow of London once preached so long that all his congregation dropped off, leaving the sexton and himself alone. The sexton finding the doctor apparently no nearer a conclusion, said to him: "Sir, here are the keys. Please lock up the church when you get through your discourse." "Ye quality and not quantity that counts," "not how much, but how good."—National Magazine.
